Hassan II mosque: the biggest mosque in the world after the one of the Mecca, with room for more than 100,000 worshipers. Inaugurated in 1993, it took 6,000 traditional Moroccan artisans five years to build this magnificent mosque, with its intricate mosaics, stone and marble floors and columns, sculpted plaster moldings, carved and painted wood ceilings. Rising above the Atlantic, this magnificent monument – one of the world’s largest mosques – was designed by French architect Michel Pinseau. At 210 metres (689 feet), the minaret is Morocco’s tallest structure.

Habbous District: Located beside the Royal Palace, this traditional marketplace – built in the 1930s – is Casablanca’s best place for Moroccan rugs, pottery, teapots, leather goods and more. Be sure to visit the olive market and try the delicious Moroccan pastries.

Art Deco district: Casablanca’s economic boom in the 1920s led to the construction of countless art deco buildings designed by French architects. Start your walking tour in the Square of Mohammed V, the focal point for the city’s grand boulevards.

The Corniche: This promenade along the Atlantic is a favourite spot among locals. Ideal for a morning jog or sunset stroll, it’s also perfect for exploring the affluent Anfa area with its unique Hollywood flair. In the evening, you’ll feel the city’s festive spirit.
